Post University Student Finance

Statement of Ethical Principles and Code of Conduct

All Post University Student Finance staff adhere to the Statement of Ethical Principles and Code of Conduct established by the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators (NASFAA).

Statement of Ethical Principles

The Student Finance staff of Post University commit to the following Statements of Ethical Principles:

• Execute the highest level of ethical behavior and refrain from conflict of interest.
• Protect the information on the FAFSA so it is used solely for awarding aid under the Title IV Higher Education Act and protect the privacy of student financial records.
• Work with students honestly and fairly and act in a manner that merits the trust and confidence placed in us.
• Remove financial barriers for those who intend to pursue postsecondary education and support students admitted to Post University.
• Assist students to apply for financial aid free of charge.
• Provide services that do not discriminate on the basis of race, gender, ethnicity, sexual orientation, religion, disability, age or economic status.
• Educate students and families on financial literacy topics including managing debt and expenses.
• Provide students and parents information needed to make good decisions about attending and paying for college.
• Inform students and parents of changes in financial aid programs that can affect their eligibility.
• Adhere to all applicable laws and federal regulations governing federal, state and institutional aid programs.

Code of Conduct

• Information provided to students by the office is accurate and unbiased and does not reflect any potential or personal gain.
• Student Finance staff will not award aid to themselves or their immediate family members which could be perceived as a conflict of interest.
• Students and borrowers will not be encouraged to do business with any particular lender.
• Student Finance staff may not accept cash, gifts or benefits from any entity doing business or seeking to do business with Post University.
• Award information provided to students will include the cost of attendance, clarification on the types of awards offered (grants, scholarships, loans, work) and renewal requirements for each award.
• All required consumer information is prominently displayed on Post University’s website, is easily identified and labeled as “Consumer Information.”
• Staff will disclose to Post administration any involvement, interest in, or potential conflict of interest with any entity with which Post has a business relationship.
All Federal Student and Parent Loans are administered through the Federal Direct Loan Program. For all private or alternative Loans, Post University:

- Does not recommend a list of preferred lenders, limit the choice of lenders or refuse to certify or delay the certification of educational loans from any lender
- Will not participate in any revenue-sharing arrangements with any lender
- Does not solicit or accept any gift or item of value from lenders as a requirement of doing business
- Will not request or accept offers of funds for private loans to students in exchange for providing concessions or promises to the lender for a specific number of educational loans, loan volume or a preferred lender arrangement.
- Prohibits any employee who works with educational loans to receive any gifts or compensation for their participation on advisory boards related to educational loans
- Will not request or accept staffing assistance from any lender
