MASTER OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

PURSUE AN EDUCATION FOCUSED ON SERVING THE PUBLIC GOOD AT POST UNIVERSITY!

The Master of Public Administration (MPA) degree is designed to help you develop the leadership and business skills you could use to make a difference in your community and for your future. Use this program to enhance your executive-level administrative skills to pursue leadership roles in public service – including nonprofits, government agencies, or even the private sector.

MASTER OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION - ONLINE ONLY

This master's degree program explores the essential administrative theories and skills involved in leading public-minded departments and organizations. Coursework covers how to analyze public policy, apply principles of finance to different public service settings, lead new or expanded initiatives in government or nonprofit operations, evaluate public administration practices, and more. Plus, your MPA offers the opportunity to build professional abilities for communication, critical thinking, decision-making, and leadership – skills that transcend industries and organizations. This 37-credit-hour program also offers two concentration options to help you customize your studies to your goals for the future:

- Criminal Justice
- Emergency Management and Homeland Security

Disclaimer: The Master of Public Administration offers a foundational business and administrative education for the world of non-profits and government agencies. It is not designed to fulfill educational requirements for specific industry credentials.
